The matter is certainly one to which the Police ought to give some attention. While we have only Chinese and Indians on day duty perhaps not much improvement can be expected, for the constables themselves no doubt have the very hazicat idea of what regulation of the traffic means. Could not the fluences of the Colony afford the pay of one or two European constables to be told off specially for the supervision he Indian and Chinese constables in the egulation of street traffic ? Another subject to which attention was recently called in our columns by a correspondent is that of street, cries by hawkers. These cries are prohibited by law within 23 certain districts, and a new order appeared in the Gazette a few weeks ago proclaiming the districts. This naturally gave rise to an erpactation that the law was about to be enforced, but the cries go on just the same as before. Why the Governor in Council should go to the trouble of making orders,. and the Colony be put to the expense of printing them, when there is not the remetest intention of carrying the orders into
